

Face Fit Testing

Facial Hair Styles

Red dotted line indicates respirator seal area.

CORRECT

CAREFUL not to cross the seal

INCORRECT will not protect

	Anchor  	Balbo  	Bandholz  	Chevron  	Chin Curtain
Circle Beard  	Clean Shaven  	Dali  	Ducktail  	English  	Goatee
Goatee Extended  	French Fork  	Fu Manchu  	Full Beard  	Garibaldi  	Handlebar
Horseshoe  	Hulihee  	Imperial  	Lampshade  	Mutton Chops  	Painters Brush
Pencil  	Pencil  	Side Whiskers  	Soul Patch  	Stubble  	Toothbrush
Van Dyke  	Verdi  	Villain  	Walrus  	Zappa  	Zorro

Some facial hair styles when worn with a tight-fitting respirator will not provide adequate protection. Additionally, the thickness of the facial hair inside the sealed area of the mask could also affect the performance. If required to wear a tight-fitting mask, you should undergo a face fit test and adhere to a facial hair style that does not affect the seal, otherwise powered air purifying respirators should be worn.